Overview

How does an industrial UPS system work?

An industrial UPS system works by storing electrical energy in batteries and providing power to equipment when there is a disruption in the main power supply. It instantly switches to backup power, preventing downtime and protecting sensitive systems from damage.

What is an uninterruptible power supply?

Uninterruptible power supplies provide power to critical loads in the event of a power failure. Unlike emergency generators, UPS systems provide power immediately, but only for a short period of a few minutes – until a backup power supply comes online or until the load completes its shutdown sequence.

How does a standby UPS work?

In normal operation, a Standby UPS supplies power directly to the equipment and charges its internal batteries. If the UPS detects an input power failure, it quickly switches to its internal battery, and an inverter converts DC power into AC power to supply connected devices. Generally, Standby UPSs are less expensive than other types of UPS.

What are the different types of industrial UPS?

The main types of industrial UPS systems include online (double-conversion), line-interactive, and offline (standby) UPS. Each type offers varying levels of protection and efficiency based on the power needs of the industrial application. How do I choose the right industrial UPS for my business?
