Overview

---

What is a V2G & v2h EV charger?

These next-generation chargers do more than just power your EV. By charging your EV with surplus rooftop solar during the day and discharging energy to power your home or support the grid, V2G and V2H play a crucial role in integrating renewable energy, increasing grid resilience, and lowering household energy costs.

What is two-way charging?

Two-way charging is a two-way solar tariff for residential and business solar customers. It's designed to: encourage customers to export excess energy generated at times when it's needed the most. Why do we need two-way charging?

Will bidirectional EV charging work in Australia?

Over the past 5 years bidirectional charging on EVs has been progressively tested through small-scale trials. The Australian Renewable Energy Agency (ARENA) has recently laid out a roadmap to integrate bidirectional EV chargers into the national grid, marking significant progress in addressing regulatory hurdles.

How much does a V2G Charger cost in Australia?

High Initial Cost: The first V2G charger available in Australia, the Quasar Wallbox, cost $10,000 – about as much as a home energy storage battery. While this version is no longer available, the price was certainly a deterrent in South Australia where the technology was first regulated.
