Can solar panels and batteries keep your home running during a power outage?

By creating your own little “island” of a home with solar panels and batteries, you can run essential appliances for days during a power outage. Read on to learn more about how to keep your home running during a power outage.

Can a solar inverter keep your power on in a blackout?

To keep your power on in a blackout, you need a solar inverter that can remove your home from the grid, along with a generator or battery for longer-term energy needs. By creating your own little “island” of a home with solar panels and batteries, you can run essential appliances for days during a power outage.

Can a generator outlast a power outage?

With your generator and some fuel, you can usually outlast any prolonged outage of the grid, and even help a neighbor out if you need to. Your solar panels will remain off until the grid comes back up, but at least you’ll have power. Gas generators tend to be loud, smell bad, and create all kinds of pollution from their use.

How does a solar-plus-battery system work?

Unlike solar without batteries (i.e. a grid-tied solar system), a solar-plus-battery installation keeps your power on by “islanding,” or disconnecting itself from the grid when an outage is detected. While the blackout remains in effect, your little solar island will charge the batteries during the day and discharge them at night.
